

Respect, we are equal

My poem

RACISM

Explanation

My poem is about racism and violence. I talked about Martin Luther King Jr. and Rosa Parks. I wanted to talk about them because they were part of Civil Rights Movement. I also talked about protests, because it relates to what's happening today. My poem also relates to people who have suffered racism. Also that the protests have to be peacefully.

Respect, we are equal

People think that racism is just good,

They think that people doesn't care,

How can it be normal if you are been racist?

Because of race and culture?

Violence against people,

Many have suffered,

People need justice,

People need respect

We have many protests for justice,

But if we want to protest,

We are going to protest peacefully

Without any violence

We don't need more violence,

We need respect,

We are equal,

Everybody can have the same rights as others

Many Black people suffered Racism,
Martin Luther King Jr. who fought for Civil Rights,
Rosa Parks who also fought for Civil Rights,
But also against Racism,
They wanted the best for their people

Respect, we are equal

Justice for all people who have suffered Racism

Protest without any violence

Information about WHO is mentioned in my poem.

I mentioned Martin Luther King Jr. because I wanted to add someone that still important today and that represents the Civil Rights Movement.

I mentioned Rosa Parks because she was also part of Civil Rights and because she also had a experience of racism and she wanted to make a change.
